Challenging economic times requires new revenue sources, new business models, and a dramatic paradigm shift in how you lead your mission-driven organization. While the expertise you need to achieve your goals seems to be out of reach, you're still struggling to find critical answers:

- How do I better engage my Board?
- How can I uncover new major donors and inspire them to give?
- What actionable steps can I do today to make my organization more attractive to donors?
- What can I do to create a culture of philanthropy within my organization?
